Renowned talk-show host and Bollywood filmmaker Karan Johar announced on Sunday morning "two most wonderful additions to my life and lifelines". Karan was referring to his twins which he had fathered through surrogacy.

Karan Johar introduced Ruhi and Yash, a boy and a girl twin, through his Twitter handle on Sunday. The children were born last month in Mumbai's Masrani Hospital, the same hospital where Shah Rukh Khan's son AbRam was delivered.

"This was an emotional yet a well thought out decision which I have taken after considering all the responsibilities and duties that come with being a parent," Karan Johar said.

Karan's boy has been named after acclaimed Bollywood filmmaker and Karan's father Yash Johar who passed away in 2004.

“I am ecstatic to share with you all the two most wonderful additions to my life: my children and lifelines; Roohi and Yash. I feel enormously blessed to have these two little angels of my heart who were welcomed into this world with the help of the marvels of medical science.”

This was an emotional yet well thought out decision which I have prepared for mentally, physically, emotionally and logistically to ensure that my children get all the unconditional love, care and attention from me and mine. I have submitted to the fact that my children are my world and priority. My work, travels and social commitments would have to take a back seat and I am prepared for that. By the grace of God, I have the most caring and supportive mother who will be an integral part in the up-bringing of her grandchildren and of course, friends who are family.

I am eternally grateful to the surrogate who has fulfilled my lifelong dream and provided a warm, loving and nurturing environment to my children before bringing them into this world. She will always remain in my prayers.

Finally, a big thank you to Dr. Jatin Shah for his guidance and support and for being like a family member through this wonderful and exciting journey.

In his book “An Unsuitable Boy”, Karan had expressed a desire to adopt a child or opt for surrogacy.

The 44-year-old filmmaker, who keeps travelling around the world, understands that having children would mean that “work, travels and social commitments would have to take a back seat”.

“I am prepared for that”, Karan said, adding, “By the grace of God, I have the most caring and supportive mother who will be an integral part in the up-bringing of her grandchildren and of course, friends who are family.”

Karan also extended gratefulness to the surrogate who “fulfilled my lifelong dream and provided a warm, loving and nurturing environment to my children before bringing them into this world.”
